Halicz, Key to Lemberg, Threatened by Second Thrust Russian Arms

Brusiloff's Victorious Troops Have Captured Jezupol, Eight Miles South, in A Swift Change of Tactics—More Than 7,000 Men With 131 Officers, 48 Guns And Many Machine Guns Among Spoil—Both Berlin And Vienna Admit Slav Successes—French Again Repulse German Attack On Chemin-des-Dames.

LONDON, July 9.—Halicz, the key to Lemberg, capital of Galicia, is threatened seriously by the successful thrust within ten days of the Russian armies.

Changing suddenly their point of attack to west and north of Stanislaw, about 15 miles south of Halicz, on the Lemberg-Czernowitz railway, the Russians have taken Jezupol, eight miles south of Halicz, on the River Dniester, and four villages between the railway line and the Lomnica river, ten miles to the west. Ciezov, one of the villages taken, is several miles southwest of Jezupol and on the Lemberg-Stanislaw railway. Important captures of prisoners and guns were made by General Brusiloff's men. More than 7,000 men, 131 officers, 48 guns and many machine guns were taken from the Austro-Germans.

The Russian attacks northwest of Stanislaw continue. The Russian cavalry has swept on to the west and has reached the Luvka river. Berlin and Vienna admit the success of the Russian thrust, but both capitals claim that the advance was checked by German reserves, thrown in apparently to save the Austrian positions.

A further advance of the Russians toward the Siwka river, thirty miles west of Halicz, would make most perilous the retention by the Austro-Germans of their present line. Ziochoff-Halicz, and would compell at least the evacuation of Halicz. Their flanking movement may have added security, as the Russians have been attacking the Austrians along the Bystrica-Solotvina, southeast of Stanislaw, but with no important gain of ground as yet.

Again the French have thrown back German efforts to reach the lines of the Chemin-des-Dames. The German crown prince had been relentless in his expenditure but all to avail, as the French still hold tight to the important positions south of Laon.

Along the British front in France, on the Austro-Italian front, and in Macedonia, there has been little infantry activity, only raids and reconnoitering operations being reported. Along the Mesopotamia-Persian frontier the Russian troops have evacuated several towns in the mountains, including Kahnikan, on the Dila river west of Kermanshah.

STEAMERS IN COLLISION IN DENSE FOG

C. P. R. Manitoba Rams The Freighter W. S. Mack.

STRIKE OFF END OF WHITEFISH POINT

Crew Of Disabled Safe—Boat Reached Shore.

(By Morning Bulletin Leased Wire) SAULT STE. MARIE, July 9.—The Canadian Pacific railway passenger steamer Manitoba collided with the upbound steamer W. S. Mack in Whitefish Bay early this afternoon.

The Mack left the Soo light about midnight but was undoubtedly delayed by fog, which was very thick this morning.

A dense fog following the heavy thunderstorm of last night has overhung this section. Many steamers came to anchor during the night and morning, or proceeded very slowly.

A dispatch tonight from Lighthouse Keeper Carlson confirms the collision between the Manitoba and Mack. Carlson says:

"The steamers Mack and Manitoba collided in a dense fog at three P.M. off the end of Whitefish Point. The Mack has a hole torn in her forward quarter four by twelve abreast of No. 3 hatch on the port side four feet below the water line, another hole two by four feet, four feet above the water line by the Manitoba's anchor. After colliding the Manitoba went on without stopping while the Mack headed for the shore where she listed in a sinking condition in twenty feet of water near the lighthouse. The crew aboard are safe."

Could the Find Mack
The Canadian canal reports the Manitoba arrived at nine o'clock to-night. The first question asked by Captain McIntyre was:

"Have you heard anything of the steamer I collided with in Whitefish Bay?" He was very anxious about her and was greatly relieved when told that the Mack's crew were all safe.

Captain McIntyre held his boat in the vicinity of the accident for nearly two hours in an endeavor to locate the steamer and assist it if necessary. The fog was so thick that he could not find her again. The Manitoba struck the Mack a glancing blow, sustaining only a little bruise on her starboard bow and losing one anchor. Both steamers were proceeding under check in the fog.

IN LETTERS OF BLOOD
BRANDON, Man., July 9.—"God is speaking to the people in letters of blood, and I believe that if the world does not turn to God he will entirely forsake it."

This solemn warning, uttered in grave, forceful tones, was given by Archbishop McSheen before a large congregation at a confirmation service held in St. George's church on Sunday.

Attendance Figures

Paid admissions, grounds .....	1,493	3,709
Receipts, gate .....	$1,003	$2,285
Receipts, grand stand .....	246	838

The 1917 receipts do not include 4,000 tickets out, for which no return has yet been made. Moreover, the first day of the Fair last year was Tuesday, while this year it opened on Monday, one day earlier in the week. The proper comparison as far as the attendance record is concerned should be between Tuesday and Tuesday.

SOON ABLE TO SUPPLY ARMY; MEET RAIDERS

Lloyd George Makes Reassuring Announcement To British Commons.

AIR RAID DISCUSSED IN SECRET SESSION

Pays Tribute To Demeanor Of People—No Panic.

(By Morning Bulletin Leased Wire) LONDON, May 9.—"The government now hoped soon to be able to meet not only the requirements of the army in France, but to provide sufficient airplanes to make it impossible for the Germans to come here without losses which would persuade them it was not worth their while to come."

This was the announcement made by Premier Lloyd George at the secret session of the house of commons this evening, according to the official account. It was stated that twenty-two airplanes of the Gotha bombing type took part in the raid on London last Saturday. Three of the raiders were destroyed and six machines of protecting squadrons also were destroyed.

No Complete Protection
The premier said the attack in fact had not been made with impunity. He wished to point out that the first fact the house should get into its mind was that the complete protection in the air could never be secured. The nearest approach to immunity lay in making their visits so costly that they would not become worth the Germans' expense. He wished to point out that during the last four or five months their naval bombing airplanes had dropped over seventy tons of explosives on German aerodromes in northern Belgium and had dropped six tons on those very aerodromes the night preceding the raid, whereas, the total number dropped by the Germans here was only two tons.

"If airplanes could be provided both at the front and for defense against raids," said the premier, "it would of course, be done; if not the army must first be first, and it is vitally important that the Germans should know it. He feared that some of the articles in the press might prevent the Germans from knowing it."

People Faced It
"He saw something of the people in the raided district a few hours afterward. We never saw people face disaster with greater cheerfulness and constancy. Nowhere were there signs of panic."

The premier said he was certain that if the people of the country realized that all our strength for the moment must be put into establishing supremacy in the air in order to be prepared to take risks, which, after all, have been far better off now but for the strike in April, which lost us between 150 to 200 machines."

Increased Output
"We in the last six months have increased enormously our capacity for turning out machines; have extended existing works; built new ones, and added more than 23,000 men to the workmen in the works. The government had quickened production and improved the type of the machines."

The government's information was that Germany's capacity for production was inadequate to compete with the provision Great Britain has made.

"Up to this time, however, the increase only had been gradual as measures taken at an earlier date had not yet had time to reach full fruition, but production was now going up by leaps and bounds. We would indeed have been far better off now but for the strike in April, which lost us between 150 to 200 machines."

FATALITIES IN RAID
LONDON, July 9.—A revised list of the casualties in Saturday's air raid as officially announced tonight, follows:

Killed in the Metropolitan area, 29 men, 4 women, 5 children; injured, 98 men, 44 women, 52 children; in Thanet Island, killed, 1 man, 2 women; injured, 2 women, 1 child.

NO AERODROME FOR B.C.
VANCOUVER, July 9.—The plan of the imperial munitions board for the construction of aerodrome on Lulu Island has been abandoned and British Columbia is therefore not to obtain stations for the training of army aviators.

FOOD CONTROL CRUX IN U. S.
WASHINGTON, July 9.—New opposition developing today convinced senate leaders that the administration food control bill cannot be passed in its present form, and Democratic Leader Martin called a meeting of the Democratic steering committee for tomorrow to discuss material changes.

NO SCARCITY OF COAL IN WINTER, SAYS CROTHERS

Announces Fuel Controller Has Made Complete Arrangements With U. S.

(By Morning Bulletin Leased Wire) OTTAWA, July 9.—"We are going to get all the coal we need this winter," said Hon. E. W. Crotthers, when asked if he had anything to say regarding the embargo placed by the United States on the export of coal to all countries, even to the countries of the allies, including Great Britain and her colonies and protectorates.

Mr. Crotthers said that C. A. McGrath, the fuel controller, who is at present in New York, had made complete arrangements for Canada's normal supply of fuel from the United States.

Mr. McGrath has appointed an American expert on coal and transportation to look after the coal from the mines to the Canadian border, and from the border to the points of distribution. It will be taken care of entirely by the railway commission, under Sir Henry Drayton.

Mr. Crotthers has had no report regarding the coal miners' strike in southern Saskatchewan, which is said to have taken place. When asked if such a strike was a violation of the terms of the Industrial Disputes Investigation act, he said it was, but that miners generally had always ignored that legislation.

POSTAL CLERKS OF DOMINION IN CONVENTION

Announced 600 Have Joined Colors—Delegates Welcomed By Mayor Of Winnipeg.

(By Morning Bulletin Leased Wire) WINNIPEG, July 9.—Postal clerks from all parts of the Dominion assembled here tonight for the first business session of a five days' convention under the chairmanship of President Charles Gardner of Regina.

Working conditions peculiar to the employment of the delegates and the high cost of living were the principal topics discussed, many of the postal clerks taking part in the discussion.

It was officially announced that over 600 postal clerks from city post-offices throughout the Dominion had joined the colors and several had made the supreme sacrifice, while others had been wounded or taken prisoner.

During the morning the fifty delegates were officially welcomed by Mayor Davidson, after which reports were received from the various officers. With the appointment of the different committees the morning session concluded. In the afternoon delegates were taken round the city in automobiles, most of the principal places of interest being visited.

MANCHU GENERAL RESIGNS OFFICES

Leader Of Anti-Republican Movement—Reform Party Surrounds Peking.

LONDON, July 10.—General Chang Hsun, leader of the attempt to place the Manchus again on the throne of China, has resigned all his offices and handed over the administration of affairs in Peking to General Wang, who is a friend of Tuan Chi Wang, leader of the republican forces. Special despatches from Peking state that the fighting between the Republicans and Imperialists has ceased and that the Republicans surround Peking.

The railway to Peking is held by the Republicans, and trains are now running between Tien Tsin and the Chinese capital.

JOINED DAY WA RESTARTED

LONDON, July 9.—(C. A. P.)—Lieut. Leonard Solomon, of the Scottish Borderers, killed in action, joined the Canadians the day war was declared. He was discharged as medically unfit in Canada and proceeded to England for an operation. He then received a commission, leaving for the front within a fortnight.

AUSTRIAN CABINET RESIGNS

AMSTERDAM, July 9.—The Austrian cabinet, the Lokai Anzeiger of Berlin says it learns, has decided to resign.

A new ministry, it added, already is in course of formation.

SERVED TWO YEARS IN EDMONTON PEN

Alien Enemy With Unenviable Record Convicted At Brandon Of Robbery.

(By Morning Bulletin Leased Wire) BRANDON, Man., July 9.—Three years in the penitentiary was the penalty meted out to John Tkachyl, who was found guilty by Judge Cumberland on Saturday of entering and robbing a store.

By means of his finger prints, the identity of the man has been established as that of an alien enemy with a most unenviable criminal record.

Before coming to Brandon he had operated with doubtful success at Edmonton and Calgary and had served two years in the penitentiary at Edmonton for house-breaking.

SUPPLIES ALLIES FROM CANADA
WASHINGTON, July 9.—Representatives of the Canadian board of grain supervisors conferred today with Herbert Hoover on the American and Canadian wheat situation. Stocks in Canada are larger now than in the United States and an effort will be made to supply the allies' present requirements from Canada rather than from the United States.

PARTISANSHIP ABSENT—BILL IN COMMITTEE

English and French Members Vie To Make Suggestions Of Improvement.

(By Morning Bulletin Leased Wire) OTTAWA, July 9.—Consideration of the details of the Military Service bill was continued in committee on the house today. There was an almost complete absence of partisan feeling, and members on both sides of the house, both English and French, appeared to vie with each other in making suggestions which in their opinion would improve the bill.

Several clauses of the bill were finally disposed of by the committee. Fred Farabee, who had been reached at the house today, was present and appeared to vie with each other in making suggestions which in their opinion would improve the bill.

The only formal amendment moved was one by F. B. Carvell providing that when the minister of militia takes an appeal from the lower tribunal he should make a deposit to cover the costs of the appeal so that there would be no unfairness to the person concerned.

The prime minister thought the suggestion worthy of consideration and the matter stood over for further consideration.

When the penalties clause was under discussion, H. B. Morphy and others suggested a more drastic measure. He suggested ten years penalty for desertion and five years for failure to report.

Mr. Farabee remarked that the object of the bill was to provide reinforcements, and not to make jail birds.

Before the consideration of the bill was resumed Sir Sam Hughes repeated his former statements as to the letting up in recruiting in 1914 and said on two occasions that Canada had done her duty. Sir Thomas was not present.

PROF. CUTLER TAKES OVER NEW DUTIES

Head Of Field Husbandry Department, College Of Agriculture, Alberta.

Professor G. H. Cutler, whose appointment as head of the department of field husbandry in the Alberta College of Agriculture was announced some time ago, has arrived in Edmonton to take over the duties of his new office. Professor Cutler was for four years professor of cereal husbandry in the University of Saskatchewan. During the four years of Professor Cutler's residence at the University of Saskatchewan he has done some very valuable work in producing earlier varieties of wheat, oats, barley, flax and peas.

"LOOK OUT"
Chief of Police Hill has received information that a number of pickpockets have come into the city with the intention of plying their trade at the fair grounds. He is desirous of warning the public to be constantly on the watch for them.

Plucky Aviator Unhurt And Sends For Fresh Machine For Another Trial—Show Formally Opened By Hon. Duncan Marshall—Fine Weather And Good Attendance Mark Opening Day—Exhibits Large And Creditable—Attractions Are Of A High Order—Midway Shows Draw Eager Crowds.

The most dramatic incident of the fair yesterday was when Miss Katherine Stinson's aeroplane, after making a good start from the western end of the race track enclosure and rising some 20 feet from the ground, got beyond the aviator's control, swerved around until it was headed right for the grandstand, plunged earthward as its occupant cut off the engine and skidded sideways over the grass with a snapping of wheels and gear, while dirt and turf flew through the air and for one fearful instant it looked as though the machine were going to pitchpole end over end to ruin and destruction.

For a full minute the hundreds of spectators in the stands sat as if they had been turned to stone and the spectators who lined the enclosure were equally petrified. Then, as it was seen that the machine was not completely smashed and Miss Stinson was seen to rise in her place in the fuselage, an audible sigh of relief arose and from every quarter men came running to the aid of the plucky young woman, whose attempt to give the exhibition flight which all were waiting for had ended so unfortunately.

Aviator Not Hurt
Miss Stinson was entirely uninjured. "I wasn't hurt a bit," she said to The Bulletin. "Isn't it too bad? I am so sorry it happened. The controls of the machine were so stiff that I could not handle them and I had to land in a hurry. I didn't want to fly into the grandstand. You see this was not my regular machine which was damaged in Calgary. It was one I had had sent from Chicago and I was not used to it."

"I have sent for my other machine and it will be up from Calgary in the morning. I will take the engine from the machine which was damaged last night and put it into the other. I hope to give Edmonton a good exhibition with it."

Just how long it will take to equip Miss Stinson's second machine with the new engine is one of those things which cannot be stated with any degree of positiveness. Undoubtedly her mechanics will work with the utmost expedition and will not be a very long job. Miss Stinson is eager to get going. It is promised that when she does make a flight she will drop some papers from the machine, returned soldiers' trenches on the fair grounds.

Wish Her Good Luck
Last year Miss Stinson made some of the most successful and satisfactory flights in her career in Edmonton. She did not miss one and returned to the fair grounds every time. Her many friends regret the bad luck which attended her on this trip, particularly as this is her first flight and not the exhibition's when she fails to make a flight. All Edmonton is sincerely wishing her quick repairs and a successful start.

Meanwhile the main machine which she essayed to go aloft last night is quite badly damaged as to its running gear. The under wheels are crumpled and the axle and wheel blades are also somewhat broken.

Fine Weather for the Fair
In all other respects the Exhibition got away to a splendid start. Favored by superb weather conditions, the attendance was very satisfactory indeed. The exhibition itself is one of the best ever seen in Canada both in the quantity and the quality of the exhibits, and in the high standard of the many and varied attractions presented by the management.

The fact that it is an agricultural fair and that its basic purpose is the promotion of agriculture, the basic industry of the province of Alberta is never for a moment lost sight of.

But the entertainment features are not forgotten and the amusements of the Midway, the attractions given in front of the grand stand, the races and the hundred and one special features may one and all be stamped with a fresh stimulus of their own. Jack order about it and the crowd which homeward wended their way in the evening were satisfied that they had had their money's worth.

Attendance Satisfactory
Manager Stark and the officials of the exhibition association were quite satisfied with the attendance figures for the opening day, considering that the fair is only a longer this year than it was in 1914 and that it is hardly a fair comparison to set the record of Monday, 1917, against that of Tuesday, 1916. Yesterday was really a sort of preliminary day. The number of paid admissions yesterday was 1,493, representing cash receipts of $1,003. The cash receipts from the grandstand were $246 making the total cash receipts for the day $1,249. The receipts for the opening day, Tuesday, a year ago were $2,309, but on that occasion the grandstand receipts were $538 having come from the sale of tickets for the day, 4,000 tickets are in the hands of returned veterans for sale from which a report is yet to be made and which when they do come in the receipts will undoubtedly swell the receipts.

1926 Passes Used
Yesterday 1926 statistical tickets were recorded, which includes passes of all kinds. There are also some 200 weekly tickets yet to be accounted for. Moreover this year 278 vehicles, including horse drawn and automobiles, passed the gates free of charge. Last year these vehicles paid a fee.

Under ideal weather the Edmonton exhibition of 1917 was formally opened at 2 o'clock by Hon. Duncan Marshall, minister of agriculture. The ceremony took place on the decorated platform in front of the grandstand and there were present President West, Vice-President McIntosh, Mayor Stark, Mayor Henry, Hon. J. R. Boyle, Hon. Charles Stewart, Hon. Wilfrid Gariepy, Mr. Cote, M. P., Hon. C. W. Cross, Aldermen Martin, Grant, MacDonald, Rush, Wilson and Bellamy, Supt. Wroughton of R.N.W.

Mr. Marshall's Reply
Mr. Marshall in his brief but earnest reply declared that he wished to say to the citizens of Edmonton that this exhibition was the best and most satisfactory evidence of the city's growth and expansion. There was no better proof of the steady development of Edmonton and the Edmonton district than these beautiful grounds and these fine buildings.

Canada, at the present time, was facing the greatest crisis in its history. The one thing that Canada must depend on after the war is her livestock production. Everything that could be done to promote that industry and assist agriculture was a patriotic duty.

Edmonton in Forefront
Edmonton was at the forefront already in this regard and the minister congratulated this city and Calgary in having the best managed agricultural exhibition in Canada, largely due to the efficient direction of their respective managers, Messrs Stark and Richardson. He as minister of agriculture, appreciated the successful promotion of livestock production of this kind and the co-operation of the best men in the towns and cities of Alberta with the farmers in making them successful which they were. In these days, when agricultural societies in many places had gone out of existence, he was overjoyed to see that the

Behind the Footlights

What the Advance Man Says

"INTOLERANCE" IS A GREAT SPECTACLE

In presenting "Intolerance" as a motion picture David W. Griffith promised something of such magnitude that it would stagger the theatre-going public. That he succeeded in achieving that very goal may be assumed from the praise that has been lavished on the picture by critics who have heretofore put their chin in the air and regarded motion pictures in general with lofty disdain.

Two audiences at the Empire theatre yesterday were afforded an opportunity of seeing for themselves whether the much heralded feature which was given a hard task to beat the wonderful record of the first Griffith picture, "The Birth of a Nation," was really as colossal from a spectacular viewpoint as its predecessor. In the opinion of one critic, "Intolerance" is of more general interest than the Civil War story, but the intricacy of the plot of the latter picture is such as to require attention which "The Birth of a Nation" does not necessarily demand.

It has often been charged against Mr. Griffith that "Intolerance" which he originally intended to name "The Mother and the Law" was conceived for propaganda purposes following the startling revelations of a committee of moral reformers on the Pacific Coast. Griffith, it has been said, opposed bitterly the campaign of the reformers on the grounds that they were meddling with what they could in no way correct. If there is a moral to be pointed out by the story it is obscured in the mass of wonderful detail such as only a Griffith can produce. As in all Griffith pictures there is an abundance of "close-ups," "flash-backs," and other tricks of the photographic art which place the master director of the film world in an isolated class.

The scene of the modern story, the main theme, is laid in an American city and shows the workings of intolerance upon the victims of a band of "uplifters" resulting in temporary wrecking of a home and the bringing of a man to the verge of death on the scaffold. The story of the sacred time is laid in Judea in the year 27 A.D., episodes from the life of Christ ending with the Crucifixion being shown. In the medieval story the time chosen is the reign of Charles IX, when influenced by his mother, Catherine de Medici, he permits the massacre of the Huguenots. The ancient time is in the heyday of Babylon, when it is finally destroyed by Cyrus and his Persians.

The scenes at the fall of Babylon are marvelous. It does not seem possible that human agencies in these times could so reconstruct the ancient city and place before the camera such a formidable and imposing structure. The freestanding sweep of the Persian army towards the doomed city, the attack on the walls, the attacking of the great towers and catapults, the hand to hand fighting on the walls, in the streets and in the palace, the scenes at the fall of the city, the burning of the city, are reproduced with an effect that is positively startling. So with the French scenes. Each story has its own little love thread, enough to hold the interest. The taunting of the king by his mother and brother and his signing of the decree are shown, as are the murder of Coligny, the battles in the streets, the slaughter of the defenseless, the flight of the king, the flight of the king, the flight of the king.

The scenes from the life of Christ start with the marriage feast at Cana, where Christ turns the water into wine. There is also the episode of the woman taken in adultery, the march to Calvary with Christ bearing the cross and the Crucifixion, the three crosses standing out against the lurid sky.

It is said that Mr. Griffith has been at work on this picture four years and the list of authorities he cites as having been consulted is most formidable. How much it cost and how many people in the making can hardly be computed. Even the production on the canvas scene of the services of many more than the usual number of superlatives, as special music is provided before and behind, and there is a choir of this music which blends to a nicely with the picture. In the past are such well known players as Mae Marsh, Robert Harron, Tully Marshall, Seena Owen, Miriam Cooper, Beulah George, and others.

"Intolerance" will be the attraction all this week with matinee daily.

You don't have to think you aren't meant to.

The outstanding number is the final, "The lighting, and costumes were all most effective and the performers were most effectively the real thing, not Italian stage names only. The supple grace of the thing, such a song as the one rendered, giving a dying soldier's message to his mother, is questionable taste. There are too many sore hearts about to make it advisable to bring that subject into a comic monologue. On the other hand, a Canadian song well done and warmly received.

The movie films, as usual intended to give information about the war, on the other hand, are of sufficient interest to warrant exploitation as a film of such tremendous import as the manufacturers evidently intended it. On the other hand, if the latter had been done it is reasonable to believe that this picture would be one of the sensations of the war so far as motion pictures are concerned.

PHOTOPLAYS

Publicity men tell of current attractions on the Screen in Local Picture Houses

EVOLUTION OF THE WAR FILM

When the history of the Great War now raging in Europe is written the historian should devote one entire chapter to the evolution of the war film. He should take from the initial stages when the so-called

War Weeklies presented nothing more exciting than famous public men

fanning the flames of patriotism by speaking in the great public squares and collages

of the part of this great world known as belligerent nations up to the stage showing the great modern guns pounding incessantly an unsentimental with results that historians will never be able to accurately chronicle.

There are just two faults to be found with "Smashing the Hindenburg Line," which is being shown at the Monarch theatre this week: First, the picture could have been and should have been condensed to half its present length. Second, the cutting room should have eliminated at least fifty scenes showing the army marching. Perhaps if the former had been done "Smashing the Hindenburg

Line" would not be of sufficient interest to warrant exploitation as a film of such tremendous import as the manufacturers evidently intended it. On the other hand, if the latter had been done it is reasonable to believe that this picture would be one of the sensations of the war so far as motion pictures are concerned.

Viewing these pictures in the spirit of one who has never considered motion pictures of the war with a degree of seriousness

one is struck with the utter barbarity of a people who wantonly raze landmarking buildings that have been monuments never to be rebuilt, of a past generation, a generation far more artistic and less commercial than the present. The ruins of

Rapenne and Peronne after the Germans flushed their rifle and machine gun fire

provoke a feeling of disgust chiefly because the destruction of these places seem so futile in the light of the horrors of the bombardment.

One of the most impressive scenes in the entire picture is the sugar refinery so

recently mentioned in dispatches as having changed hands as many times as the bone of contention on a hard fought for

since the bombardment.

It is something more than a heap of wood and scrap iron, as shown in the film.

The famous "tanks" are shown at their best. In fact a producer of comedy films

could scarcely contrive "tanks" that would give these land dreadnoughts more opportunities to climb, seemingly insurmountable obstacles than the military authorities provided for the "tanks." In one part of the picture the huge caterpillar crawls over a wide stream, through the earth aperture were nothing larger than a shell hole.

Other scenes include a railway bridge reduced to a mass of steel and wood; gun emplacements large enough to shelter a whole

company of men; the British airplanes actually hovering over hostile lines; rifle grenades thrown from the trenches; the British shells piled like cordwood; and the diabolical

twelve inch shells which constantly were being thrown from the trenches.

The musical accompaniment provided by

Earle Hill and his orchestra is a pleasant

and altogether appropriate feature of the entertainment.

"FLASHLIGHT" WITH DOROTHY PHILLIPS

"The Flashlight," with Dorothy Phillips

in the principal role, is likely to be voted

the greatest screen success of the period when it is offered at the attraction of the

at the Majestic theatre. In this play Miss Phillips has boundless opportunity for the display of her artistic and dramatic talents. The story is a mystery play in the role of a society girl driven to the mountains by the call of a family feud. There she is drawn into a mystery that nearly drives her to the verge of madness because of a murder that has been committed under strange circumstances. That the girl arrives in time to free the accused is but one item of the gripping plot that figures in the outcome of the play. The story is a thing, such a song as the one rendered, giving a dying soldier's message to his mother, is questionable taste. There are too many sore hearts about to make it advisable to bring that subject into a comic monologue. On the other hand, a Canadian song well done and warmly received.

The movie films, as usual intended to give information about the war, on the other hand, are of sufficient interest to warrant exploitation as a film of such tremendous import as the manufacturers evidently intended it. On the other hand, if the latter had been done it is reasonable to believe that this picture would be one of the sensations of the war so far as motion pictures are concerned.

Publicity men tell of current attractions on the Screen in Local Picture Houses

EVOLUTION OF THE WAR FILM

When the history of the Great War now

raging in Europe is written the historian should devote one entire chapter to the evolution of the war film. He should take from the initial stages when the so-called

War Weeklies presented nothing more exciting than famous public men

fanning the flames of patriotism by speaking in the great public squares and collages

of the part of this great world known as belligerent nations up to the stage showing the great modern guns pounding incessantly an unsentimental

with results that historians will never be able to accurately chronicle.

There are just two faults to be found with "Smashing the Hindenburg Line,"

which is being shown at the Monarch theatre this week: First, the picture could have been and should have been condensed to half its present length. Second, the cutting room should have eliminated at least fifty scenes showing the army marching. Perhaps if the former had been done "Smashing the Hindenburg

Line" would not be of sufficient interest to warrant exploitation as a film of such tremendous import as the manufacturers evidently intended it. On the other hand, if the latter had been done it is reasonable to believe that this picture would be one of the sensations of the war so far as motion pictures are concerned.

Viewing these pictures in the spirit of one who has never considered motion pictures of the war with a degree of seriousness

one is struck with the utter barbarity of a people who wantonly raze land-

marking buildings that have been monuments never to be rebuilt, of a past generation, a generation far more artistic and less commercial than the present. The ruins of

Rapenne and Peronne after the Germans flushed their rifle and machine gun fire

provoke a feeling of disgust chiefly because the destruction of these places seem so futile in the light of the horrors of the bombardment.

One of the most impressive scenes in the

entire picture is the sugar refinery so

recently mentioned in dispatches as having

changed hands as many times as the bone of contention on a hard fought for

since the bombardment.

It is something more than a heap of wood and scrap iron, as shown in the film.

The famous "tanks" are shown at their best. In fact a producer of comedy films

could scarcely contrive "tanks" that would give these land dreadnoughts more opportunities to climb, seemingly insurmountable obstacles than the military authorities provided for the "tanks." In one

part of the picture the huge caterpillar crawls over a wide stream, through the earth

aperture were nothing larger than a shell hole.

Other scenes include a railway bridge reduced

to a mass of steel and wood; gun emplacements large enough to shelter a whole

company of men; the British airplanes actually

hovering over hostile lines; rifle grenades thrown from the trenches; the British

shells piled like cordwood; and the diabolical

twelve inch shells which constantly were being

thrown from the trenches.

The musical accompaniment provided by

Earle Hill and his orchestra is a pleasant

and altogether appropriate feature of the entertainment.

"FLASHLIGHT" WITH DOROTHY PHILLIPS

"The Flashlight," with Dorothy Phillips

in the principal role, is likely to be voted

the greatest screen success of the period when it is offered at the attraction of the

at the Majestic theatre. In this play Miss Phillips has boundless opportunity for the display of her artistic and dramatic talents. The story is a mystery play in the role of a society girl driven to the mountains by the call of a family feud. There she is drawn into a mystery that nearly drives her to the verge of

madness because of a murder that has been committed under strange circumstances. That the girl arrives in time to

free the accused is but one item of the gripping plot that figures in the outcome of the play. The story is a

NORTH BATTLEFORD PROUD OF RECORD IN CIVIC FINANCE

There is no town in the three prairie provinces in a better financial condition than the town of North Battleford, says R. Farquharson, town clerk, who is in the city to visit the exhibition and make a round of friendly calls.

Mr. Farquharson was formerly in the office of the city clerk at Edmonton.

EXPECTS A GREAT INFLUX AFTER WAR

WINNIPEG, July 9.—"All investigations lead to the decided belief that there will be a tremendous immigration of imperial army ex-service men to Canada after the war," declared J. Bruce Walker, commissioner of immigration, who has just returned from London. Mr. Walker has been in the old country for five months, acting as the empire settlement committee, in connection with the settlement of soldiers.

KILLED TO GET PLANS

STOCKHOLM, July 9.—The newspaper Dagbladet says that Colonel Hjalmar Smith, a prominent member of the Swedish general staff, was found murdered in his flat Saturday. The circumstances suggest an attempt by the murderer to get possession of military plans in Colonel Smith's keeping.

"World At Home" Shows Clean, Amusing and Instructive

Midways as a convenient place to relieve an unexpecting public of their coin is evidently a thing of the past judging from the attractions offered by the "World at Home" shows now at the Edmonton exhibition. No person can go through the shows and say they have not received the worth of their money. The shows are clean, and in good many cases instructive and also amusing in the extreme. Nearly all the whims of human nature were taken into account when organizing the shows and people in all temperaments can find something to please.

Monday at the midway is the slideshow known as "Creation." It is something new and marvelous, and also a new departure for a midway. It deals with the last chapter of Genesis and is not a moving picture. It is a spectacle which is a work of art, science and electricity. It depicts the work of the Creator during the first six days of the life of this world. This wonderful show is shown day by day and shows Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden. It shows the evolution from the time of the creation of the sun, moon and stars. In conjunction with this wonderful spectacle the public are given a good treat without any extra charge in the form of music from the well known and famous Klitties band. As in the main show, the band renders a high class concert. Miss Jean Campbell, soprano, sings during the show. Those desiring a thrill for their money can get it at "The Wall of Death." There are motorcyclists and dare devils on a perpendicular wall and at the same time perform stunts similar to those often seen on a theatre stage by bicycle performers. Joe Lelieu, while traveling a great rate of speed does some hair raising performances.

In the "House of 1000 Wonders" mystery hunters can get their likes and in Hill's Society Circus and canine performances are always please the audiences with their antics. Rough riders and bronco busters can have their

TUESDAY, JULY 10, 1917

One way to boost Edmonton is to speak well of its fair.

The city is tied up to the fair, financially and in every other way. The fair is a municipal enterprise. The city has put a vast amount of money into the grounds and buildings. If there is a deficit, the tax-payers have to make it good. If the fair is established as a financial success it will in time become a valuable asset, capable of carrying itself and perhaps of doing something to lighten the load on the taxpayer. Self-interest therefore obligates every tax-payer of the city to do what he can to gain for the fair a good name, to induce people to attend it, to keep it from becoming a load, and to make it a help and not a hindrance to the successful financing of the city.

Edmonton's location imposes upon it the need of having a fair, a real fair, a fair that shall be representative of the great country of which this is the metropolis, and which will play the part of a district fair in the development of the agricultural and other resources upon which the future, alike of country and city, depend. Just because Edmonton is the trade centre of so large a district, and so fertile a district, it is bound to be the scene of an annual fair which will either demonstrate the progressive spirit of its citizens and promote the farming and industrial interests of the whole district, or which will advertise to the world that we are not alive to our opportunities. Situated as it is, if Edmonton did not have a fair, or did not have a successful fair, it would be a standing and humiliating advertisement that the people of the city failed to recognize and utilize the advantages that have been given them.

The future of this city lies in the country. As the country is filled with settlers, and as the settlers achieve success, the city will grow and become prosperous. And that is its only chance. The benefit of a great exhibition as an encouragement to farming, and to better farming, are many and well known. Competition arouses interest, inspires effort, tends to betterment, both in methods and in products. Never was there a time when it was so important to the world that the farmer be encouraged to do his best as now. And surely never was there a city which had more at stake on the farmer than Edmonton has. The more successful the farmer in this district is, and the larger number of successful farmers there are in the district, the greater will be the trade from which the city will collect tribute, and the number of people who can find here the means of livelihood.

The manager and directors alone cannot make the fair the success it ought to be. That they are doing their best, and doing well, is obvious. They deserve success. They also deserve assistance, the assistance of the private citizen. And he can assist. A fair lives on its reputation. Its reputation is made by what people say of it. That is determined largely by what is said of it by the people in the city in which it is held. The people of Edmonton have stood loyally by the fair in the past. They are bound in self-interest to stand by it even more loyally now and in the future, for never before could it be made so important to them and to the city. It is a good fair, a fair well worth attending, a fair well worthy of support because of the stimulus it gives to the great business of farming upon which the city depends for its existence and its growth. Whoever has anything at stake in Edmonton owes it to himself to boost the fair as a means of boosting Edmonton and the Edmonton district; not by making foolish claims which cannot be made good, but by consistently recommending the fair to other people as an event well worth attending.

Given fine weather, the prospect is that the fair, which opened this afternoon, will be the "biggest" and most successful of the long series of successful fairs held in Edmonton.

The live stock entries indicate that the display will be even better than the splendid showing that has come to be expected in this branch. The exhibit of agricultural products will doubtless be up to the average, or better. The demand for "space" bespeaks a larger showing of manufactured articles than ever before. As an exhibition, therefore, of what the country can and does produce, the event promises to beat the records.

The attractions have been selected, as usual, in an endeavor to provide entertainment that will entertain, and therefore draw the crowds. There are "attractions" which attract people to stay away. They have been conspicuous at Edmonton fairs by their absence. The track and platform programs provided here in previous years have been uniformly interesting enough to be worth the price. The schedule for the present event warrants the expectation that this will again be the case this year and that those who go to be entertained will get the worth of their money.

A fair lives on the gate receipts. It draws some revenue from other sources, but if it does not "get the crowd" it cannot keep going, and would have no reason to be kept going. If, therefore, the Edmonton fair is of benefit to Edmonton it deserves the generous patronage of Edmonton people, which it has always had and doubtless will have this year. The management look also for a larger out-of-town attendance than ever before. This outside interest and patronage the fair also deserves. It is not a local event, but aims at making a real annual display of the products of the whole country of which Edmonton is the trade centre. If it is worth while for Northern Alberta to have a fair which represents the progress being made by its people in all branches of useful industry, and which accordingly stimulates production by inducing competition, then the Edmonton fair deserves the support of people in all parts of the country it aims to serve.

The attendance at a fair depends mainly on its reputation and upon advertising, and upon the reputation quite as much as upon the advertising. Unless the reputation backs up the advertising, the more advertising is done the sooner and surer the collapse of the enterprise. People cannot be "fooled" all the time, and if a fair is to be successful year after year the advertising of one year must appeal to the favorable public impression made by former events, or it cannot appeal successfully. The Edmonton fair deserves to have its advertising taken seriously. It has never been long on promise and short on performance, but has consistently made good on the announcements of the posters and the newspaper forecasts. It has earned and secured the confidence of the people of the city, and of the district of Northern Alberta. The thousands who come to attend it annually from all parts of the district, at considerable expense, are witnesses that it is really "a good fair"; it "delivers the goods" according to promise, and that it is fulfilling, as circumstances permit, the functions of a great exhibition.

Sensible Talk.
From the Calgary Herald.
A French-Canadian speaker at Drummondville told his audience that it was their mistake to believe that the whole of Canada was the province of Quebec. It was sensible talk and quite as applicable to some Ontarians who seem to have an idea that Ontario is the whole Dominion.

Advice Good; Action Better.
From the Toronto Telegram.
Canada will be disappointed if Hon. W. J. Hanna does not instruct the gentlemanly tell of grabbing less of the Nation's Food. Canada will be still more grievously disappointed if Hon. W. J. Hanna does not instruct the flour mills interests, the cold storage interests and the packing-house interests in the virtue of grabbing less of the people's money.

687,000 TO BE SELECTED
WASHINGTON, July 9.—Unofficially it was indicated today that 687,000 is the number of men to be selected for the first national war army from the millions registered June 5.

Why Voluntary Enlistment Failed

Sir Sam Hughes, in the House of Commons on June 19th, spoke as follows on reasons for the failure of voluntary enlistment.

Hansard report.
We have instances where gentlemen occupying high journalistic positions in this country were in receipt of money from the United States of America and it is now known, and it has been proved in the United States, that that money was paid to them by the United States government for the purpose of inducing them to come to the United States and work for the United States government. I must here say in justice to the hon. member for Edmonton (Mr. Oliver) that it had been intimated to me last night that he had stated that I had been a party to helping the munition worker to emigrate men out for munition work instead of sending them to the front. I never did anything of the kind. I will deal with that matter a little later. The dread was expressed that workmen could not be found for the various industries and services in Canada and it gradually took head. At the time I suspected German gold, and so informed the Prime Minister. The movement was given force and the Imperial Munitions Board, and the Finance Minister each became anxious and restrictive. Finally the head of the Canadian Pacific Railway was influenced by the agitation, and while the Imperial Munitions Board and my hon. friend the Minister of Finance had limited themselves to improving personal communications with the Prime Minister and many others, Lord Shaughnessy went further, and not only privately, as did the others, but openly proclaimed himself in an address before the Board of War in Montreal. Lord Shaughnessy had been regarded in railway circles as a man of sound judgment; he had been trained under the greatest railway man of the age, Sir William Van Horne, but he had not the breadth of judgment, had not the force of character, had not the fearlessness in face of trial of the great minister. Yes, I am not affected by German gold?

Sir Sam Hughes: At this juncture I should point out that these aspirations manifested themselves all over the country. The Prime Minister was bombarded with them. He was an easier mark than I. I would throw them out myself. I did not recall this incident; the Prime Minister will not object. A very distinguished gentleman, head of one of the largest organizations in Canada, the manager of the Dominion Bank, and the manager of the Bank of Montreal, came to the office and with tears in his voice and some in his eyes, begged us not to enlist and take the men away.

The Prime Minister, however, yielding to these influences—and I admit they were very serious, I was pestered by them until I threw them out—suggested to me a letting up in the recruiting. It was in vain that I protested and met the fallacious arguments.

Sir Robert Borden: On what occasion was it that I suggested letting up on recruiting?
Sir Sam Hughes: The leader of the Government on one of the occasions—take the very day when Mr. McLaughlin was present, the leader of the Government asked me again if I could not let up on recruiting; and, moreover, the right hon. leader of the Government later on pointed out—if he wants the whole story I will be glad to give it—pointed out that there was a tremendous agitation in Toronto over the subject, that he had had various communications from Toronto, that the Finance Minister had told him there was a perfect storm brewing there, and the agitation was due to the fact that men could not be obtained as workers; Mark Irish, of the Imperial Munitions Board; Mr. Flanagan, of the Imperial Munitions Board; and others had been insisting in their demands that these men would not be taken. If the Prime Minister will permit me, I will read letters that will cover the thing, letters from himself.

Sir Robert Borden: I would like the Prime Minister to see one of the letters before I read it.
Mr. Carroll: As a matter of fact, was not recruiting called off at Sydney and Glace Bay over a year ago?
Sir Sam Hughes: I did not call it off. I will show the Prime Minister a copy of the letter; I have not the original here.

Sir Robert Borden: The hon. gentleman can go on with his speech; I will make my reply.
Sir Sam Hughes: Before I sailed for England in March, 1916, knowing that the Prime Minister had committed his fears re the labor situation and the Quebec question to others—I might mention to Mr. Godfrey, of Toronto, and a number of others—and in being the transition period between winter billeting and spring encampment, I yielded to his request and partially let up on recruiting. I told the Prime Minister that I could give him an excuse I could make was that it was between winter billeting and spring encampments at the time, and the records will show that we did not draw a man out; we did not give any men to the munitions; our officers simply did not exert themselves as vigorously as formerly, owing to the fact that we had no place to put the men without going to great expense, and spring camps were being formed.

It may be noted, incidentally, that these same organizations and gentlemen with affiliated interests, while prominent in patriotic and philanthropic professions, have nevertheless not been unminful of the profiteering aspect of the war, hence, probably, their intense interest in the labor question. Only this week the head of the Munitions Board has taken it upon himself to write a letter to the manufacturers of this country practically demanding that recruiting shall not interfere with his munitions, when every day if I go to any big factory in Montreal or Toronto I can see hundreds of men clamouring for work. I have seen five hundred men around the entrance to a factory in Montreal in the morning looking for work at the very time these gentlemen were saying that we were taking away their workmen. There are 10,000 women in Toronto today, and hundreds of men, anxious for work in munition factories, and yet these gentlemen tell the public and the Government that we are interfering with the work of the factories, when it is perfect nonsense to say so.

Other contributing causes in the falling off of recruiting are the abusive tone and language of many speakers at public meetings, calling indiscriminately all those not enlisting "lackers," "cowards," "snipers," and thus forcing honest men to get their backs against the wall and become negative instead of positive.

Mr. Macdonald: Speaking at Lindsay, Ontario, on April 28, regarding the conditions of which he spoke and the agitation of the hon. gentleman said: This unfortunately had an effect upon the Prime Minister. The result was that I was asked in March 1916, not to press recruiting, and recruiting today has been dead in Canada for fighting purposes.

Do I understand the hon. gentleman to say that the statement made by him in Lindsay is quite correct?
Sir Sam Hughes: I am quite surprised at the hon. gentleman asking any such question. That speech is issued by myself, and I am not in the habit of issuing statements that I do not endorse. I will prove it before I have finished. I had just referred to the abusive tone and language of many speakers at public meetings as one of the contributing causes in the falling off of recruiting. Many of these speakers were well-meaning gentlemen, fellows with their hair parted in the middle, coming out of the cities and towns, many of them not over the fighting age themselves, men who should have been in the trenches and these men would lecture the fellows in the country. It is a pleasant task for city chaps to lecture country boys on their duty. I could mention fifty men from different places, all of fighting age, who had the hardihood to go out and lecture men who, from one cause or another, were not going to the front.

ANSWERS

This department does not pretend to be infallible. It will endeavor, however, to answer questions sent to it by readers of the Bulletin. To the best of its ability, reserving the right to ignore all that are trifling or of common knowledge. To receive attention, every inquiry must bear name and address. Information is not wanted for publication, but as an evidence of good faith.

Soldier Homesteader.
To the Bulletin: A man having a homestead in this country, on reserve in the United States, would he lose his homestead in this country if he was called out to fight in the United States?
Yes.

Lumbering Authorities.
To the Bulletin: Please give the names and addresses of the leading magazines in the U. S. and Canada relating to lumbering.
American Lumberman, Chicago; Lumberman's Review, New York; British American Lumberman, Canadian Blacksmith and Woodworker, Western Lumberman, all of Winnipeg; Lumberman and Woodworker, Toronto.

Current Comment

Raising Interest Rate.
From the Calgary Herald.
The announcement that the Dominion government will pay five per cent instead of three per cent on the school land fund of Manitoba is interesting because it indicates a similar increase of revenue to Alberta from the same source. If this is put into effect for Alberta, it will mean an increased revenue for education purposes of at least $52,162.84 on school land revenues already collected. Were the school land fund properly accounted for and all overdue capital collected, the annual increase of revenue to the province would be $179,495.81 per year.

The western provinces have a long-standing grievance on this score. The fund is derived from the sale of land set apart in each township for school purposes. Like other natural resources, these lands, although reserved for the benefit of the province, are administered by the Dominion government. The Dominion sells this land from time to time, places the proceeds in a fund, which it invests in various securities, and pays the interest to the province. Up to date, the government has disposed of Alberta lands to the value of $1,749,819.55, and of this amount there is an overdue principal uncollected amounting to $2,547,859.15. The Dominion government is in arrears to the province $783,041.93 on this account.

Up to date the province has received only three per cent on the principal collected, although very little money in Canada is bringing less than 5 1/2 per cent at present. Provincial Treasurer Mitchell pointed out, at the last session, that the government's own war bonds would pay the province five per cent.

Get After Munition Workers.
From the Vancouver World.
France is about to increase her taxes on war profits to be about eighty per cent. This, when the other taxes already imposed in the republic are taken into account, leaves the munition manufacturer practically only what he would be able to make in profits in normal periods.

Mrs. Briggs brought home a new girl from the intelligence office and instructed her in her duties.
"And do you have to be called in the morning?" she asked.
"I don't have to be, m'm," replied the new girl, hopefully, "unless you just happens to need me."—Yonkers Statesman.

WHEAT PRICES LOW ACROSS THE OCEAN

Over $2.00. Here, Worth $1.80 in Britain and Germany—Lower Elsewhere

Washington, July 9.—Wheat prices abroad, where the governments have control of food supplies, are shown to be much lower than in the United States, by a report made to the food administration today by the allied wheat committee.

While wheat is selling well above $2 in this country, the government prices in other countries, according to the allied commission, are as follows: In the United Kingdom and France, $1.90; Germany, $1.80; Belgium, $1.60; Australia, $1.61; India, $1.35; Italy, $1.69 to $1.94.

The Waste of War is terrible, but the waste of food in times of peace is colossal. Rich and poor alike eat tons of food that has little food value—and this useless food breaks down the so-called eliminating organs and depletes the physical and mental powers. Shredded Wheat Biscuits is all food, prepared by a process which makes every particle thoroughly digested. It is 100 per cent. whole wheat. Two or three of these Biscuits with milk, make a nourishing meal, supplying the greatest amount of energy at lowest cost. Delicious with sliced bananas, berries or other fruits.

Made in Canada.

Favorites have Day to Themselves At Horse Races but Satala Pulls Surprise; Pays $50.90 on $2 Ticket

Harness Races Are Won By Real Patch, North Dakota Horse, and Guy Boy, Calgary Entry—Marta Mac, Yowell, Bassano Boy and Volma Are Winners In Running Events—President W. R. West Drives Rock Island To Victory In the Mule Race.

The favorites had the events nearly all to themselves at the opening day of the fair horse races yesterday. With the track in perfect condition, and an attendance well up to the average for the first day, there was some excellent racing, too, barring the dust in the early part of the racing the spectators had an afternoon of unbroken enjoyment.

It was a poor day for pari-mutuel business but many of the old faces were present. The best pay of the machines during the day was the five furlong, selling, for 3-year-olds, when a lucky holder of a place card on Satala pulled down $50 and some odd cents on his ticket, while another with a show ticket on the same mare won $25 and 90 cents. Those were the two fortunate men of the afternoon. Most of the returns were small, the favorites having nearly all the backing.

The mule race furnished the real thriller of the afternoon. There were four starters, President Bill West with Rock Island and Corn with J. B. Miller at the reins were sent away at the scratch, while Charlie May with Joe Wagon had fifty yards handicap, and Joe Driscoll with Hard Luck was sent back fifty yards. All drove like veterans and the mules did their part well. The present, however, was too speedy for the others and he finished the half with a small lead, Joe Driscoll pressing him hard and all making a whirlwind finish.

The mule race, with new drivers each day, will be an afternoon and evening feature.

Taken In Straight Heat
The two harness events were taken in straight heats. Real Patch, the North Dakota mare, had no trouble in the 2:20 pace, 2:20 trot, while Guy Boy, Calgary, had a $2 place ticket for his opponents in the 2:25 trot. Hammanota, the Donipier entry, was looked on by many as a winner in the 2:30, but could not get better than two seconds and a third, Imilda B., the McGuire horse of Denver, pulled a surprise in the final heat by going to second place and netting $30 to a lucky holder of a $2 place ticket.

The four furlongs for 2-year-olds foaled in Canada west of the Lakes, went as most expected, to Yowell.

In the six furlongs Foeman was picked for the winner by the knowledge of the boys, but the Volma mare had no trouble in winning. Satala took second springing the surprise of the afternoon, while Martha McGee finished third, the last two being neck and neck.

Jockeys Fined $10
Two jockeys were mulcted $10 each during the afternoon for having taken their horses on the track for a work-out during the progress of the harness event.

The summary:

Sporting Facts and Fancies

There is considerable speculation among the fans and elsewhere as to why Dell is retained on the pitching staff of the Robins. Perhaps to win Dell is retained on the pitching staff of the Robins. Perhaps to win Dell is retained on the pitching staff of the Robins. Perhaps to win Dell is retained on the pitching staff of the Robins.

If Uncle Sam ever has to appoint an official fly catcher—you never can tell what this war will bring about—we herewith suggest Amos Strunk, Connie Mack's genial outfielder. When it comes to catching flies, Amos is right there and his talents ought to be used for the benefit of the nation.

Mike Donlin, once a giant mainstay, is still grumbling over what he terms the "bum deal" he got as manager of the Memphis team of the Southern association. Mike has gone east again and swears he will never try to manage a ball club again, except, of course, if he should happen to get another chance to manage one. Anyway, his troubles in the South began when the Memphis team lost a dozen games or so by one run. Then he had a run-in with the umpires. Following this the owners of the club said a few strong words to him, and so on. They blamed him for everything, says Mike, including cartoons in the papers of rival baseball towns. So he just threw the whole thing up, folded his tent and silently, also perhaps, stole away. Donlin has always been a hard loser, and refuses to be the goat for anybody,—so there you are.

Fight fans in New York are still talking with enthusiasm over the bout which recently was staged between Mike O'Dowd of St. Paul and Soldier Bartfield of Brooklyn. O'Dowd's victory was well merited and well earned. From the viewpoint of sport the bout was one of the best fought in a long time. Both men fought hard and the scrapping was clean, and full of action from start to finish. The St. Paul boy used his usual rushing methods and in that manner escaped many a hard swing directed at his by the soldier. O'Dowd's short right to the body, worked early and often, may be said to have won the day for him. The men were very evenly matched and any little incident may have changed the scale. The St. Paul scrapper had the better of five out of the ten innings and to him, therefore, went the decision. Two of the rounds were even and three belonged to Bartfield. More good, clean fighting of this kind will increase the popularity of the boxing game and also that of the men who are engaged in it.

A Little Baseball History
The first no-hit, no-run, no-man-reach-first game was pitched by J. Lee, Richmond, July 12, 1880, when Richmond, who twirled for Worcester, defeated Cleveland. Richmond was a southpaw. Charlie Bennett, who later lost both legs in a railroad accident, was the catcher. The score was 1 to 0 in favor of Worcester, which itself only made two hits during the game.

Today in Pugilistic Annals
1889—Australian Billy Murphy fought his first battle in America, defeating Johnny Griffin, a Massachusetts featherweight, in three rounds at San Francisco. In the following year the Australian became featherweight champion of the world by knocking out Ike Weir in San Francisco, after the Belfast Spider, as Weir was known, had had all the better of the earlier rounds.

1905—Freddie Welsh won on a foul from Young Joseph, in 11 rounds in Wales.

1909—Phil McGovern and Charley Goldman fought a ten round draw in New York.

1908—Jack Britton and Charley Twin Miller fought a six-round, no-decision bout in Philadelphia.

BEST DOGS OF CANADA WEST AT EXHIBITION

Local Dog Show Has Dogs From Many Points For Showing Today.

Dogs from cities all over western Canada will be on exhibit when the dog show opens its doors at the exhibition grounds Tuesday morning. Over two hundred entries have been made and the show promises to be a credit to Edmonton.

Entries have been received from Calgary, Lethbridge, Banff, Winnipeg and Vancouver. J. C. Fletcher, of Winnipeg, will make his first appearance in Edmonton in his official capacity as a judge. Judging will start at 2 p. m. Tuesday.

If the Edmonton owners succeed in proportion to the number of winners they sent to Calgary, dog fanciers of this city will be well pleased. Out of the thirty dogs sent to Calgary by the Edmonton Kennel club, twenty-one first prizes were won; twenty seconds; eleven thirds and eleven specials. The Edmonton dog, Clapton First Shot, won the prize for being the best dog on exhibit.

Today We Celebrate
Rear Admiral Henry Hudson Sutherland, retired, the last of the civil war naval heroes, is today celebrating his 65th birthday. He was retired from active service on his 62nd birthday, July 10, 1914, according to the age limit fixed by congress for naval officers. Now that the country is at war, however, he has again been called upon to help the navy with his valuable experience he gained during his many years in the service. Admiral Sutherland was born in New York City July 10, 1852, and by the time he was 14 years old had served a brief term in the volunteer navy during the latter part of the civil war. In 1867 he enlisted again as a naval apprentice. In June of the following year he was appointed to the Naval Academy at Annapolis. He graduated in 1872, his first service as an officer being aboard the U. S. frigate Tuscarora of the Pacific fleet. During the war with Spain he was in command of the gunboat Eagle and fought the first naval engagement in that war. In 1906 Sutherland was promoted to the rank of captain and four years later was raised to flag rank by President Taft, who placed him in command of the first division of the Pacific fleet. In 1911 he commanded the expedition that invaded Nicaragua and re-established order in the Central American state. He was until his retirement in 1914 a member of the general board of the navy.

Fair Demand For Wheat From Canadian Millers During Session

Winnipeg, July 9.—There was a fair demand for wheat from Canadian millers, but offerings were light and few deals were effected. Prices are holding up and steady sympathy with the strength of the American markets. New York brokers were in the market for oats, as well as the conventional, but there was not much offering, as is usual at the opening of the week.
Flax continued firm in sympathy with an advance at Duluth. There was little doing in barley. Trading generally was slow pending the receipt of the United States crop report.
Winnipeg cash wheat closed 2c below its previous level, with the October option 34c lower. Oats also closed lower than Saturday's closing quotations. At Minneapolis, July and September wheat were 4c and 3c lower respectively.

Adventures of Uncle Wiggily

Uncle Wiggily and the Tweedledee.

Copyright, 1917, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily!" cried a voice, as the old rabbit gentleman started out from his hollow stump bungalow one morning to walk in the wood and look for an adventure. "Oh, Uncle Wiggily, be careful!"

"Be careful of what, if you please, and who are you, if I may ask?" politely inquired the bunny. "I am your friend Alice, from Wonderland," was the answer, "and I would like to be careful and not get hurt to-day."

"I always am careful," answered Uncle Wiggily. "I look for cabbage and turnip traps wherever I go, and I never pick up a bit of carrot on the woodland path without first making sure there is no string fast to it, to catch me. What do you mean, Alice?" he asked the little foxen-haired girl as she came out of the bushes and sat down on the stoop of the hollow stump bungalow.

"I don't know just what I do mean, Uncle Wiggily," said Alice. "But I am right I dreamed you were in trouble, and I could not help you. I felt so sorry! As soon as I woke up this morning I hurried over to tell you to be careful."

"Oh, I'll be careful," promised the bunny gentleman. "But in your dream did you not see me?"

"Yes, after a while two funny little fat boys did," answered Alice. "But I don't remember that part of my dream. However, if you are going for a walk I'll go with you, and do what I can to save the Jabberwocky or the Hop Scotch bird try to chase you."

"The Hop Scotch isn't a bird," said Uncle Wiggily, with a laugh that made his pink nose twinkle like the strawberry on top of a cheese cake. "It's a bit of candy."

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily! It's a game!" cried Susie Littell, the rabbit girl coming out from behind a stump just then. "It's a game where you jump around on the pavement, and if you head Alice as you are going to play it, please may I watch you?"

"We aren't going to play," said Alice. "It's long past play time."

"I am going to look for an adventure," said Uncle Wiggily. "Then please, may I come?" begged Susie. "I'll help you."

"Come along!" cried jolly Uncle Wiggily and soon the three of them were on their way through the woods. They had not gone very far, over the path with the big green ferns on either side, when, all of a sudden, out from behind a big log jumped the two bad, old skilful scampish alligators, one with the jumps on his tail and the other with his tail all double-pointed, so he could wiggle it seven ways from Sunday.

"Ah, ha!" cried the hump-tailed gator. "Hi, ah!" cried the double-pointed one. "At last we have caught you!" and they both made a grab for the bunny gentleman, one catching him on the left side and the other on the right, and holding him fast.

BREEZY LETTER FROM LT. SHANNON

Former Edmonton School Teacher Writes Home From Bram-shott Camp

An interesting letter has been received by Secretary-Treasurer Tessler, of the Separate School Board, from Lieut. T. E. Shannon, formerly assistant principal in the Edmonton Separate school, who went overseas with the 18th Battalion, coming from Bramshott Camp, England. Lieut. Shannon says in part:

Dear Mr. Tessler: Shortly after arriving in England our battalion was transferred to the 8th Railway Construction Battalion, under our colonel. What was left of the 21st Battalion was absorbed into the 8th and the colonel took some of the officers who were engineers and a number of officers with engineers' qualifications who were at the base. As a result, quite a number of our old bunch were without jobs here. They were transferred here to reinforce Edmonton units at the front?

"There were a number of surprised men when the line-up was given out, and naturally our bunch did not like to be split up, but such are the ways of army life. Hanley went over as a junior major; Wells as adjutant and the rest of us were with the exception of engineers or had practical experience in railroad work. Lawlor, on account of having worked as a machinist on the G.T.P. picked off a good job. No one can figure out why Flanagan was on the slate unless it was because he was the colonel when he got fed up with conditions in France."

"After I had been down here a few weeks they sent me to Aldershot for a month's course in Musketry and since I returned have been on the instructional staff here as assistant musketry instructor, but I hope to see a little more action soon. I heard about a week ago that I had passed my examinations with first-class honors which gives you a high standing as an instructor."

"I have not been working very hard and have thoroughly enjoyed life in England. Capt. McMurdo and I spent four days leave together in London and have been over several times since. The weather here has been grand for the last couple of months and this is certainly a beautiful place to live at the time of year. The district in which the camp is situated is exceptionally beautiful, it is the highest point in England and quite a number of wealthy people from London have their homes here. There are a number of first-class hotels close to the camp and a number of people from London come down for the summer."

"I met three very nice American ladies at one of the hotels a couple of weeks ago. As the party was too big for me to handle I brought around Capt. McMurdo and another officer of the 21st and we had a dandy time during their ten days stay here. One of them is very wealthy and has a grand home in London and has invited us to visit them whenever we go to the big city. Her friends are very nice too."

"The wealthy one's husband went down on the Lusitania and that does not seem to hurt her as a hostess. We were her guests at dinner several times and we took them for some motor rides. It is nice to meet some real people again and we had made a good laugh at some of the English customs. A week ago Sunday we took them to a hospital run by Sisters where they distributed cigarettes and sweets among the wounded. There was a fellow taking pictures at the camp some time ago and I took a chance. I sent you one about a week ago just to let you see that the good marines have not been cutting my rations to any alarming extent."

Little Stories of Big Men

FINLEY PETER DUNNE

Mr. Dooley and Mr. Hennessy are having a fine time today, bedded, fat, they're celebrating the birthday of their creator, Finley Peter Dunne. Everybody knows Mr. Dooley and his friend, Mr. Hennessy, and everybody who knows either of them knows they must know Mr. Dunne. The creator of the serio-comical, philosophical Mr. Dooley was born on July 10, 1867, at his home in Chicago. Just 50 years young, Chicago has the honor of claiming him for her own, and it was there that Dunne was educated. In 1885 he decided that the world should read a little more about things in general, and so he became a reporter. He served on various papers, and finally on the editorial staff of the Chicago Evening Post, and Times-Herald. Then he stepped higher up the ladder of success and became editor of the Chicago Journal. This exalted position he held from 1897 to 1900 and was during this time that Mr. Dooley and Mr. Hennessy made their respective bows to the public. Mr. Dooley especially made bows, lots of them, and the more he made the better the public liked him. This Irish gentleman is the principal character in Finley Peter Dunne's writings, the last of which appeared in 1916. Mr. Dunne now resides in New York City, where he is engaged in writing magazine articles. His works are read and have made an enormous hit in every part of the English speaking world.
